

The Physics of What Happens

A stranger's car gets lost on a narrow one-way street.
A breathless young woman stands naked at a window. A man lights a cigar while leaning on a mailbox.

Things don't always happen the way they should.

A car gets lost in a window.
A young woman stands on a one-way street and lights a stranger's cigar.
A breathless naked man leans on a narrow mailbox.

Physics, like any great science, is an art.
Watch what happens.
A dog strolls through the scene. One day he will be a famous artist and copulate with a scientist.
This changes everything.

A naked man gets lost on a one-way street.
A narrow, young woman becomes a stranger in a car.
A cigar leans on a breathless mailbox.

Each scene is as real as the next. Perhaps art is the original science.

A breathless man and naked woman are lost in a car.
There's a cigar in a mailbox on a narrow one-way street.
This can all be seen from a stranger's window.
